

The Island Project's main goal is to help young people progress emotionally, socially and then academically. The project delivers effective learning approaches tailored to individuals which develop positive behaviour, regular attendance, emotional health and improved general well-being.

K* is a young man who joined us on a one-day-a-week placement so that he could access a therapeutic space to gently cultivate improved self-esteem, motivation, social interaction and confidence. K*'s potential academically is clear for everyone to see and would regularly leave staff speechless by cramming in revision during break times. K* has now added a new set of strengths to his personality, ones that mucking out animals, maintaining a farm and caring for rescue animals teach; love, compassion, belonging and hope.

We are confident that K* will continue to make every success of himself as he reintegrates back into a full mainstream timetable and begins working towards achieving his qualifications. Please join us in congratulating this kind and polite young man on his successful placement with us.
